Over 1500 To Attend Capt. Rowland Tribute At Cathedral Tonight

Community To Stage Testimonial For Local Member Of Gov. James' Cabinet

MANY COMING FROM SURROUNDING AREAS

State Political Leaders Also To Be Especial Guests At Evening Program

Captain Roger W. Rowland, secretary of Property and Supplies in the cabinet of Governor Arthur H. James will be honored tonight in the Cathedral dining room on Lincoln avenue, when he will be tendered a testimonial dinner by the citizens of New Castle and Lawrence County.

When the dinner was first proposed it was estimated that about 700 people would be in attendance. So spontaneous and enthusiastic has been the response to the idea that three dining rooms will be crowded to capacity. The committee in charge of the affair has guaranteed 1550 plates to the women of the Eastern Star who will serve it. The probabilities are that this total will be topped by another hundred by 6 o'clock tonight.

Many Visitors
Every county within 100 miles of New Castle will be represented at the testimonial dinner. Butler county has a delegation of over 50 coming in. Beaver, Mercer, Crawford, Erie, Allegheny, Indiana, Westmoreland, Washington and several other counties will be represented by delegations.

Hon. James F. Torrance, state chairman of the Republican party will be one of the two main speakers, with Judge W. Walter Brahm the other. Secretary of Welfare E. (Continued On Page Two)

Another land mark has been removed from Cascade Park. The stable, located near the present new armory, has been taken down, and the lumber used to erect a tool house for the Huron avenue, W. P. The city now buys gasoline and oil, instead of hay and oats.

There is a little admonition to motorists in the form of a line at the bottom of the current Delour Bulletin, of the State Highway Department, which say "Think of the other fellow—dim your lights." Pa New notes that there seems to be a general disregard of this law by some motorists of late. Some of the fine evenings, the state motor patrol will be on the job, tagging campaign against the practice, and it will cost those folks a few nickels. Incidentally, there are no new detours listed for the period ending February 17. The weather has not been fit for any kind of road building the last three weeks.

Br'er Groundhog must have hung his head in shame last evening, after seeing the kind of weather following on the heels of his appearance Thursday, when he didn't see anything that even resembled a shadow around here. Old Man Winter was back in the midst of things with both fists flying.

Croton avenue hill, just above the railroad tracks was one of the real slippery spots last evening, and several small accidents occurred as automobiles skidded into one another.

Congress Nears Showdown On Foreign Policy

President's "No Entangling Alliances" Statement Fails To Quiet His Critics

DEBATE RESUMES IN SESSION MONDAY

Neutrality Act Revision Is Likely To Bring Showdown On Policy

By ARTHUR HACHTEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—President Roosevelt's emphatic statement that his foreign policy is based upon "no entangling alliances," apparently failed to quiet his critics in congress, for plans were laid today for further searching debate when the senate resumes its sessions Monday.

Battle lines were forming for a showdown on foreign policy when the controversial neutrality act comes up for renewal shortly. The foreign relations committee has yet to hold hearings on that issue, but an intensive drive is under way to have congress write into the act a rigid policy of "no entangling alliances."

Another Attitude
In addition a powerful faction was seeking relaxation of the act, with a view to giving the president greater leeway in foreign policy, to meet what some leaders feel is an international set-up which is changing so constantly that flexibility of action must be maintained to deal with it. If this nation's best interests are to be protected.

Mother And Second Wife Do Not Desert Dr. Stewart

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Feb. 4.—The mother of Dr. Norman Stewart—one of the two women whose love for the former dentist was undimmed by his confession of the murder of his first wife and child—was expected to come to his side today.

She was Mrs. Lena Stewart, housekeeper for a retired preacher in Ludlow, McKean county. Grief-stricken, but loyal, she explained: "He is still my son. I will stand by him in this great tragedy." This and a similar pledge of continued devotion from the young wife he left in Jacksonville, Fla., to come north and bare the past that had tormented him through almost four years of secrecy, served to comfort Stewart in his Allegheny county jail cell today.

Flood Threat Is Developing On Some Rivers

The situation, at a glance, was: Tributaries of the Ohio river were on a rampage, and the big Ohio itself was rising rapidly, threatening to pass flood stages at some points. Five persons died in flood torrents in West Virginia, and between 500 and 1,000 were driven from their homes by flood waters in eastern Kentucky.

Nine fishermen were drowned near Cambridge, Md., when a sudden storm struck a fleet of fishing boats. However, flood danger to Washington in the eastern storm area, receded as a six-day rain halted before the march of colder weather.

Britain Moves To Crush Plot

(International News Service)

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Special precautions for the protection of "Brit" royal family were taken today as police throughout the nation were mobilized on an unparalleled scale to crush a vast "gunpowder plot" which authorities blamed on the Irish Republican army.

All royal palaces, especially Windsor Castle, were kept under close police surveillance. The houses of parliament were closed to the public. Guards were mounted in London newspaper offices and telephone exchanges while thousands of police scoured the island hunting hidden explosives and rebellious modern counterparts of Guy Fawkes.

Mussolini Will Speak Tonight

(International News Service)

ROME, Feb. 4.—The Fascist Grand Council will meet at 10 o'clock tonight, and Premier Mussolini probably will speak, but general predictions were that Il Duce would say nothing sensational.

Diplomatic quarters felt that Mussolini would refrain from re-raising the French colonial dispute at this time, and that the council would deal mainly with routine domestic matters.

So far there has been no official comment on the American embassy protest yesterday against press attacks on President Roosevelt.

Pittsburgh Escapes Serious Flood Stage

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 4.—Freezing temperatures that stemmed the torrent of rain and melting snow along headwater points where tributary streams rampaged from their banks allowed Pittsburgh, flood city of 1936 and 1937, to breathe more easily today with only a "low" flood crest in prospect.

Early today the swollen Monongahela and Allegheny rivers were within inches of the official 25-foot flood stage at the point and their juncture which forms the Ohio. At 6 a. m. the stage was 24.4 feet and rising 3 of a foot an hour, U. S. weather forecaster W. S. Brotzman reported, explaining that he expected the crest to be reached at noon somewhere between 26 and 27 feet.

Late Friday afternoon she secured counsel. Attorneys Edwin K. Logan and Samuel L. Clark were retained to defend her. While they made no definite statement as to what the defense would be it was indicated that it would probably be self defense.

Miss Maravella is charged shot Rich on Friday morning and later in a statement said she had done it because he Rich had told her he did not love her any more and had called her names.

High requiem mass will be celebrated in St. Lawrence Church, Hillsville, Monday morning at nine o'clock for young Rich, (or Ricci in Italian) with interment in the Holy Rosary cemetery, Lowellville, O. CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Chicago's capital building, the tallest skyscraper in the world when it was built in 1892, was destined for the wrecker's ax today.

Until the Woolworth building was completed in New York, its 22 stories comprised the highest building in the world—a wonder often "sold" by slickers to gaping rustics.

Eight Today Take Annapolis Exam

Six Hopefuls Are City Youths; Other Applicants Are Entered

Eight young men—six of them New Castle boys—today took the preliminary competitive examination for the vacancy at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. Eleven district youths had signified their intention of taking the test.

The examination, held in the Federal building here, will occupy the young men for more than five hours. Miss Garnet Rhodes of the civil service board said they commenced the exam at 9:15 a. m., continued until the noon recess, resumed it about 2 and are continuing the test this afternoon.

Miss Rhodes said a civil service rule forbids her from making public on test day the names of those who took the exam.

One of the boys today came from Ellwood City and another from Alliquippa.

Three-fourths of the Lawrence B. Butler congressional district asked to take the preliminary quiz.

From the list of the 34 passing the exam Congressman Louis E. Graham will name a principal and three alternates, who will take the formal entrance examination at Annapolis in March.

I'm strong for birthday parties, with ruffled cakes afloat, and while we're on the subject they're having one tonight. Its more than just a birthday its a tribute to a guy who has been asked to change his job and take a post that's high, in governmental circles, a hustling sort of chap, so might as well let's have it now, a happy birthday Cap. The cake is quite a large one the trimmings all look fine but it won't be near large enough the weather's twenty nine.

Storm Lashes Washington Vicinity

Flood Danger Is Now Receding

Nine Fishermen Drowned As Storm Strikes Fleet Of Oyster Boats

RIVERS ARE HIGH AT WINCHESTER

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Freshening winds and colder weather today brought a measure of relief from the storm which lashed over the capital and neighboring Virginia and Maryland, swelling rivers dangerously, and taking the lives of nine fishermen.

Flood danger to Washington receded as the six-day rain and wind abated, leaving the Potomac perilously high at some points, but safely below flood stages.

Capsize Crafts
Turning momentarily into a roaring hurricane, the storm struck with full force a fleet of 20 oyster boats in the Choptank river, off Chesapeake bay near Cambridge, Md., capsizing three of the craft and drowning nine members of their crews.

At Winchester, Va., streams overflowing into the bottom lands caused concern, while high waters and earth slides presented hazards in many northern Virginia communities. Some streams were over their banks, but most of them had stopped rising early today.

The heavy rains flooded a number of highways leading into the capital and also sent Rock creek, which flows through the fashionable residential district, rolling over its banks. Metropolitan police closed all endangering highways, some of which were under as much as two feet of water.

The invocation will be given by Rev. John Jamison McIlvaine, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church and the benediction by Rev. E. R. Szolom, pastor of the Church of the Madonna.

Gather Early
Because there will be a crush near the dinner hour, General Chairman Ivar V. Davis today urged New Castle people to get into the Cathedral as early as they can. Seating of the guests will start shortly after six o'clock in order to eliminate as much confusion as possible. Those people who care to sit in the Cathedral theatre while awaiting time to go to the dining room are invited to do so. Manager Kranides of the theatre said today that the theatre auditorium would be open to dinner guests without any charge. All they need do is show their dinner tickets.

The dining rooms are tastefully decorated by the Women of the Decoration Committee headed by Miss Martha Bigley. Late Friday all tables were in place and decorated and at noon today everything else seemed in readiness.

CONGRESS NEARS SHOWDOWN ON FOREIGN POLICY

White House last Tuesday are publicly declaring they are adhering to the "secrecy admonition" imposed by the executive, privately they differed sharply by the disclosure of what happened during the session.

Injects Mexican Issue

Senator Bridges (R) New Hampshire injected the Mexican issue into the swelling controversy by disclosure he had sent a letter to the secretary of state Sumner Welles requesting information on what Bridges called "a secret or mysterious note" purported to have been sent to Mexico by the state department.

He asked whether a secret note had been dispatched to the Mexican government at the time Mexico expropriated American and other foreign-owned property of enormous value.

And Senator Lodge, Jr. (R) Massachusetts, made another effort to have revealed all transactions by secretary of the treasury Morgenthau under the $2,000,000,000 foreign exchange stabilization fund. When the senate sent Morgenthau a letter asking whether it is true that a profit of $12,000,000 has been made in handling the huge fund, Lodge wrote:

Is Statement Correct
"On page 1410 of the congressional record for February 1, Senator Barkley is quoted as follows: 'I understand that the stabilization fund has been used in such a way as to make a profit to the American treasury of something like $12,000,000.'"

"Would you be so kind as to tell me whether Senator Barkley's understanding is correct and, if so, how this profit was realized?"

Lodge has a resolution pending in the senate to order all transactions with the fund made public. The law creating the secret fund expires June 30 and President Roosevelt has asked congress to extend it to the end of his term in the White House—January 20, 1941.

Furor Grows

But it was the furor over whether the president had told the senate military affairs committee that the United States must cooperate closely with France and England to save democracies from dictatorship aggression that grew in intensity.

The military affairs committee split into angry blocs on the issue of whether to make public testimony taken in secret upon activities of an official French air mission here, awaited a call from chairman Sheppard (D) Texas, for a showdown meeting.

First attempts toward an agreement yesterday were futile. Committee members wrangled and finally decided to postpone action. Meanwhile, the original copy of the transcript of testimony was ordered placed under lock.

Committee Members Disagree
Committee members disagreed as to whether the president told them America's frontier is now the Rhine. Five of them said the general theme of his talk as that the fate of democracies hangs in the balance; that the position of France and England has been weakened by arms expansion of the dictators, and that the United States in the interest of preserving her own democracy must line up with France and England.

The president's brand of "deliberate lie," placed on those committee members who attributed the Rhine frontier statement to him, evoked the comment from some of the members that the phrase was an epitome of what Mr. Roosevelt said. Several committee members voiced amazement over the president's statement to 100 newspaper correspondents yesterday that his policy embraced:

No entangling alliances.
Maintenance of world trade, without discrimination against any nation.
International reduction of armaments.
Peaceful maintenance of political, economic and social independence of all nations in the world.

Greater New Castle Aims To Help Entire County

Mr. Greater New Castle Association: Mr. Indifferent Citizen

Now, if we get the co-operation of the merchant—the farmer—the policeman—the... Just a minute—let me interrupt—why should a drive of this kind concern the farmer? He has no regard for the city—he holds no property here—has no investment here—therefore, no interest in our city.

That's where you are wrong. There is an interdependence existing between any farmer and his trading center. It's to his advantage to live near a live, progressive city. It's to the city's advantage to be surrounded by progressive farms and farmers. Maybe so... but running a farm is a tough job. It means long hours... hard work. The farmer has no time to think about the problems of the city. He spends his time thinking about his own individual problems.

Running any business... any job... and doing it right is hard work. Our association has no intention of telling anyone how to run their job. Our purpose is to show how improving our city and our community will automatically improve everyone's job... everyone's business.

I still don't see where the farmer fits in. Let's consider our county as a unit. We have some 50,000 people living in New Castle. Surrounding us on all sides are some of the best farms, some of the richest farming lands of our state. Every one of these 50,000 consume a certain amount of farm produce. Every one of these farms requires certain extras obtainable only from the city. Now—if we supply a substantial market for the farmer, then he in turn will confine his purchases to our city. By giving and getting this type of co-operation we both profit.

Well, how's the farmer going to know all this? In several ways. First, he is to be represented on the board of our association. Secondly, he can't help but notice the effective work we are going to do—because we are going to get 100% co-operation from everybody.

ONE OF OUR OWN

NEW CASTLE and Lawrence county honor one of their own tonight when Captain Roger W. Rowland, Secretary of Property and Supplies in the cabinet of Governor Arthur H. James is tendered a testimonial dinner in the Cathedral dining room.

In so honoring Captain Rowland the people of this city and county do themselves honor, for the affair promises to be one of the largest and at the same time one of the nicest affairs of its kind held here in many years.

Governor James appointed Captain Rowland to the cabinet because he wanted a man in the important property and supplies department who was a trained business executive. It was one appointment that lacked the element of political preferment. Captain Rowland accepted it only after much suasion upon the part of Governor James and his friends.

The testimonial tonight will be a tremendous affair, not because of any concerted drive to sell tickets but because the people themselves wanted to be there. Originally the committee in charge believed the crowd might go to 700. There will be close to 1600 present. It has been a remarkable demonstration of civic unity.

Captain Rowland and his family must be proud of this public gesture of esteem tonight and well they might be. No man is too big or too famous not to react in a perfectly human way when his friends and neighbors stand him out for a little time and tell him they are proud of him.

All of us are proud of the fact that Captain Rowland was appointed. Later that pride will be joined by satisfaction in a job well done for those of us who know him are confident that his term will be marked by efficiency and courage.

INVESTIGATE BEFORE APPOINTING

In directing Attorney General Murphy to investigate the federal judiciary as a whole, to determine whether improper influences are affecting decisions, President Roosevelt has, of course, been impressed by the case of Judge Manton. The grave charges presented against this judge should not arouse suspicion or prejudice against the great body of the federal judiciary. Black sheep are as rare in that honorable profession as in any other.

Nevertheless this is a proper and timely inquiry. If there are judges whose judicial opinions are being swayed by private financial or other considerations, the facts should be brought out suggests the Philadelphia Inquirer. However, such belated investigation can never take the place of the searching examination into the character and affiliations of candidates for the bench that is the duty of the Department of Justice.

The time for such inquiry is before judges are appointed. The second line of defense against undesirable appointments is the appointive power, although the president is naturally unable to make a thorough-going, personal investigation in each case, but must rely largely on the opinions of advisers.

Finally, the senate must exercise its independent judgment when the appointment is submitted for confirmation. Neither in the case of the judiciary committee nor of the main body of senators must this ever be regarded as a mere perfunctory duty. The responsibility of guarding the personnel of the courts rests squarely upon the senate. It is wiser and easier to exclude the unworthy than to oust them after they have assumed their high office.

STANDARDS OF VALUE

There are three measurements that have greatest influence upon the affairs of human life: Measurements of time, of mass and extension, and of value. Two of these are safeguarded by scientific accuracy and guarantees of law and government.

One may indulge in a flight of fancy to conjecture what would happen if time were not standardized and everybody and everything operated on its own time. Trains would not make connections, ships would lose their reckoning, appointments would be useless and chaos would reign in all business and industry. Society is organized on a standard of time.

Suppose the standards of measure and of weight were subject to periodic change without notice instead of being guarded with infinite care by science and government. Deeds would be worthless, a ton of coal might be the equivalent of two tons today and a half-ton tomorrow, commerce could no longer conduct on a basis of pounds, tons, quarts and bushels. The standards of weight and measure must be kept absolutely unvarying.

Science and society have ordered unflinching standards of time, weight and measure but the standard of value is left to run at loose ends and to be as unreliable as a worn-out clock. This is called an age of organization and order, yet the possessor of a fortune today may see it dwindle to a pittance tomorrow. Land worth millions today can be made temporarily worthless almost overnight.

There is nothing impractical or visionary in dreaming of an unchanging standard of value. Nothing would bring to society greater assurance of progress, safety and stability.

OUR FUTURE HOMES

In the unrelenting march of civilization (current phase) streamlined and air-conditioned occur together so frequently that we are beginning to think of them as inseparable, like the Gold Dust Twins. Now there is a notable exception in the home of the future; it will be air-conditioned, but not stream-lined.

It seems the architectural forecasts are all the other way. The home of the future will be shaped like a box, at least until we come to the home of the ultra-future, which may be shaped like a farmer's silo. The dominant house models as yet are of the beehive type, cubical and angular. The old-fashioned things around our homes happen to be the streamlined things—cornices and caves and dormers and other flowing lines. They will disappear.

Probably on the inside of this simple geometrical home the furniture and the utensils still will flow. There must be a good many old-fashioned people who resent the stiff lines and sharp corners of modernist furniture.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

DANCING MAY HARM CHILD

Q. When would you first send the baby to a dancing school?

A. Never perhaps. If it were a school where a group of young children over three or four learn to relax frequently and learn to enjoy freedom of rhythmic expression after their own fashion, I might consider it. But the average dancing school for pre-school children is a curse to childhood and the chief motive for its support is the pride of parents who want to have their babies made into priggish robots to be shown off. Usually the socializing contribution is very low or zero and the nerve-strain dangerously high.

As for cultivating poise and grace in normal living, the average dancing lessons for young children have been woefully exaggerated. They may destroy poise, indeed. They certainly will if they unduly excite the child, or make a prig of him. Play with a number of other children of about the same age in a back yard with some simple equipment can contribute more to poise of the average tot than any dancing school I know about. It is possible for poise while dancing to diminish poise at other times.

Q. Yesterday my baby, 19 months of age, climbed up on a chair and got a pair of scissors. I found her as she was coming down and gave her a good sound spanking. Was this wise procedure?

A. You wanted to make this dangerous act painful enough not to be repeated. If nothing more were involved you could be proud of your good results. But your child, climbing again for some dangerous object, on seeing you approach, rushes to escape, you and, in doing so, might fall, even with the object. You and I can only imagine the results.

You really have two specific problems here: One of climbing to forbidden places, the other of seizing a forbidden dangerous object. For correction, physical punishment, or even rebuke, is a very doubtful procedure for either one. Usually I would advise against it. You would have done wisely if you had quietly asked the youngster to give you the scissors or helped you put them back; and the essential item in this procedure is your calmness. It is well to proceed in this fashion always when you find your child with a perilous object.

If, however, you had been on hand so as to spank this youngster the moment she was just beginning the act of climbing, for those scissors, the effect might have been safe. You could afford to be very vigilant with this child to make sure she climbs nowhere except safe places which have been so designated for her. You might get best results by providing safe climbing places for her.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

SPENDTHRIFTS

The president believes that he can spend the nation into prosperity. Well, he has been spending for quite some time in unheard of amounts of money and where is this money going? Is it putting men to work in profitable enterprises? It does not seem to be doing anything of the kind.

I suppose most Americans read the sporting pages of the daily newspapers. I suppose they are interested in baseball, football, handball, tennis, prize fights, in horse racing and all the other many sports. The largest crowds which have ever attended the exhibition of athletes, horses and jockeys, engaged in any of these sports, have been spending their money during the last six years in increasing volume. The football crowds are now numbering more than one hundred thousand people at some games, at an average price of $2.00 a seat. Enormous crowds are viewing prize fights (they don't call them prize fights now; they call them boxing exhibitions); they call them boxing exhibitions at prices anywhere from five to five hundred dollars a seat. They are waging at Santa Anita, Cal., more than one million dollars a day upon the outcome of horse races held there. To be sure the money is wagered in a pari-mutual machine, and so great is the amount wagered that the management only takes six per cent of the amount of the wagers for their share. The rest is won and lost. In other words, the next day's crowd has just six per cent less to wager on that day's race, but they make up the extra six per cent easily enough.

The theaters are not far behind. For attending plays given in New York, Boston, Chicago and other large cities, where the speaking stage still exists, the patron pays for an orchestra seat now, as high as $6.50, and for a very popular "rasberry" as high as ten to twelve dollars a seat to the ticket speculator. A New York theater charged more than $150 for an orchestra seat. It was back in 1893 when Coquelin, the great French actor, gave a performance in the New Abbey Theater at $2.00 a seat. Loud was the outcry against such an extravagant price and yet the price was paid, and from then on the price increased.

There is not much money being spent in new industrial plants or in enlarging the present ones. In other words, it seems to me that we have become a nation of spendthrifts and the end of it all unless we about-face, is the inevitable end of individual spendthrifts.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 5:20; sun rises tomorrow 7:07.

Dizzy Dean has been awarded a plaque by Philadelphia sports writers as the "most courageous athlete of 1938." Wonder if that hotel lobby fight had anything to do with it.

A sailor was charged with indecent exposure by Hawaiian police, because he had a nude tattooed on his arm. Some of the things we have seen tattooed on various parts of the human anatomy have been fierce. We don't blame the coppers.

We know why America is so nervous. It hasn't had a screwy fad to concentrate on for a year or two.

Hint to Chamberlain: There are two ways to appease little Willie. One is to give him everything he wants; the other is to show him a switch.

It just occurred to us why thrifty Scots wear kilts. They can sit down in the kilts without wearing out the seat.

TIME FOR PROMOTION

Boss: I can't imagine what I'd do without you.

Secretary: Well, I've been here for a year, and you still haven't imagined what you could do with me.

What this town needs is a good five cent red necktie, asserts Harry Chin, the Hog Hollow hermit, who hasn't worn a necktie since his marriage forty nine years ago.

VEX POPULI

Let us talk of things that vex: Married life and love and sex, Impacted teeth and sundry ills, Mortgages and unpaid bills, Bathing rings and thinning hair, Aching feet and carking care, Traffic lights and unpressed suits, Margin calls and muddy boots, Uncut grass and politicians, Crooked cops and blond beauticians.

Landlords, mice, mud, and puddles, Sandy spinach, tasteless noodles, Squaky floors, mislaid keys, Spoiled children and canned peas, Punctures in the solar plexus, Never fail to badly vex us; These and trains we always miss And endless poems just like this.

Conquerors in the business world are like that, too. The empire they build are divided by quarreling heirs when they die.

Self-governing people may not have any actual voice in what their rulers do, but look at the fun they have kicking about it.

The swastika was once worn as a charm to ward off evil influences and spirits. Maybe the idea is still in the mind of Hitler. Some day an evil influence is going to fall on him like the great eruption of Mt. Vesuvius.

The theory of eclipses was known to the Chinese over three thousands years ago, but they did not learn anything about the Japanese until 1937.

SOUP TO NUTS

"Does eating ever cause spots to appear before your eyes?"

"I hope to tell you. Every time I look at my husband's tie and vest."

"Riches have wings," said the old philosopher. But times have changed, and now they're supposed to have horns.

Economic experts are like the kind used in murder trials. Their expert knowledge always happens to support the side they're on.

A Pittsburgh woman died from eating a cherry pie which contained spoiled cherries. This is not going to prevent us from eating the luscious delicacy. Maybe this is just anti-Washington birthday propaganda, anyhow.

NOT SCARCE

Recently someone remarked that Pat and Mike stories are scarce. Right away a reader clipped this one and sent it for the column:

Pat placed his hand against a stone wall, and bet Mike that Mike could not hit Pat's hand.

Mike doubled his fist, and swung at Pat's hand just as Pat drew his hand down.

Of course, Mike bruised his hand against the stone wall.

Then Mike attempted to get even. He placed his hand against his own nose and bet Pat that Pat couldn't hit Mike's hand.

And you can imagine what happened to Mike's nose when Mike drew his hand down.

Maybe they can establish harmony in the Democratic party, but Alas! when they get harmony, they haven't got any democracy.

AMERICANISM: Planning armaments to make our country safe; weakening ourselves by wasting the billions that are the most vital and necessary weapon.

In Milwaukee, Wis., a policeman brought John Winkie before District Judge George Page on a disorderly conduct charge. This was the policeman's complaint: "This man kicked his horse. Then the horse kicked him, breaking two bones in his hand. Then he got a safe distance away and called the horse names."

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

Every housewife should guard herself against the slevily house clothes habit. If you must do your own work, you cannot, of course be dressed up; but there are attractive housedresses which are so priced that there is no excuse for not having a few. The wise wife will remove all evidences of the day's work by the time her husband has returned from office.

Dear Miss Marke.—As I considered proper or a maid to give her mistress a birthday present?

Answer—No. She may, however, to show her thoughtfulness, make a surprise birthday cake.

Dear Miss Marke.—How long could one wait after a baby's birth to send out announcements?

Answer—They are usually sent as soon as possible after the birth. Copyright, 1939 by Watkins Syndicate, Inc.

Some 40 motorists in Johnstown, who trusted a service station owner to send in for their licenses, have had their plates taken away from them because the service station man sent the state phony checks in payment. The service station man was also arrested but that doesn't help the motorists. Moral: If you want a thing done well, you should do it yourself.

TOO LATE

Billy (at dinner): Dad are cat-carpillars good to eat?

Dad (severely): Haven't I told you never to mention such things at the table?

Mother: Yes, William, why did you ask such a question?

Billy: I just saw one on dad's lettuce, but it's gone now.

A Scotchman, aboard an English train, got into a heated argument over the fare—whether it was 5c or 10c. It grew so torrid that, in disgust, the conductor grabbed the Scot's suitcase and threw it from the train just as it was passing over a bridge across a river.

A lot of Rotarians around this district are going to expose themselves to buckwheat rash again soon, when the New Wilmington Rotarians have their annual "Buckwheat Rodeo." Remember when the old batter crock used to sit on the back of the stove all winter long, and you slipped your tongue around a buckwheat flapjack covered with real maple syrup. Folks don't make buckwheat cakes like they used to. Maybe it is because the smoke from the griddle imparted that certain peculiar odor to one's clothing.

Tommy—Why no, mother. I think it's economy. You see the same piece of bread serves for both.

Lodge Says Peace Comes Slowly
Warns Against Hastening Ideas
Formidable Armament Advocated

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 4.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Massachusetts, addressing the Women's Patriotic Conference on National Defense the other night, warned his hearers that the United States should go about the job of guaranteeing world peace gradually, not attempt to attain it with undue haste.

Well, how are we going about it? Why, by undertaking the most formidable armament program in America's peace-time history. If that is not gradual enough for Senator Lodge he is hard to suit.

The idea of arming against war is not a new notion, at that. It has been tried repeatedly and never has worked. The policy of NOT arming against war also has been tried again and again, and THAT has not worked either.

I was a Yankee news correspondent in Europe during the last years before the world conflict. Essentially that was a struggle between Britain and Germany. Britain had had most of the world's trade. Germany was trying vigorously to horn in. It anticipated forcible British resistance and began preparing to fight, for what it considered its right. The British pushed counter-preparations. Finally these preparations and counter-preparations became so expensive, on both sides, that it became obviously less expensive to fight it out than to go on preparing indefinitely.

When the row started other counting more or less involuntarily were involved. On the other hand, China, potentially an enormously powerful nation, always, until recently, despised militancy, as morally and economically unsound, and did not prepare at all. Consequently China's very pacifism landed it in a terrible war—the Chinese looked like such easy picking to the bellicose Japanese.

Moral: If you do not want war, make yourself too powerful to be safe to attack; you will be challenged and, if you are not powerful, and war is dangerously powerful, and war is what you will get. Contrariwise, if you do not want war, do not prepare for it, and some bullying rival is sure to jump on you because it appears to be perfectly safe for him to do so.

Bellicosity Versus Pacifism

A few years ago I had in congress quite an outstanding militaryist versus an equally outstanding pacifist.

At that juncture (it was in the first half of the 1920's) a lot of peace talk was in the international atmosphere. The 5-5-3 naval compact was agreed on. The nine-power treaty was framed up, too. And there was the Kellogg pact. Armament limitation or outright

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

Worse Than Packing

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.

IN the shocking case of the New York judge who resigned under charges of having taken money from interests and individual involved in the litigation before him, it is extraordinary that so much is said about the judge and so little about the people who gave the money.

YET, if the investigation substantiates the facts alleged by District Attorney Dewey, then, to the ordinary man, the individuals and corporations who bribed the judge would appear equally guilty and should be prosecuted with equal vigor. If there is a more deadly way of affecting the public interest than the corruption of the judiciary, it is not easy to specify what it is.

IF there is no other way of punishing them, the individuals and corporations which attempt that sort of thing at least should be made to feel the lash of public scorn. Mr. Dewey asserts that Judge Manton received from agents of one firm—the Dictograph Products Corporation—$52,000 while its appeal was pending in Judge Manton's court; that he received $232,000 from agents of the American Tobacco Company while a suit in which it was involved was being heard by Judge Manton; that he received $57,500 from a Brooklyn banker, John L. Lottsch, prior to a favorable verdict for Mr. Lottsch on an extortion charge; that he received $50,000 from Harry M. Warner, of Warner Bros. Pictures before a decision favorable to them in Judge Manton's court in a patent case.

IT IS said that Judge Manton's resignation, which was announced by the Department of Justice and accelerated by the President, will not shut off the investigation. Apparently he cannot now be impeached and there is doubt whether by reason of the time limitations, he can be proceeded against criminally. Perhaps the same thing applies to those who did the bribing. But at least in so serious an offense all the facts should be brought out and, if the evidence proves the charges, the country is entitled to know beyond doubt not only that the judge was bribed but who did the bribing. There should be no such thing as closing up this case until the whole business has been completely sifted.

IT IS also vital that no judge whose personal integrity is seriously questioned should remain on the bench, but it is equally vital that those who conspired to corrupt him—however willing he may have been to be corrupted—should be so arraigned, exposed and condemned as to make such things so painfully unprofitable that they will not occur again. In other words, no matter what happens to the judge in question, the companies, lawyers, agents and representatives who connived in what, if Mr. Dewey's charges are proved, is a particularly sinister business, in that it strikes at the basic belief of the people in the justice and probity of their courts—these should not be permitted to escape unscathed

Eight Weeks Pre-Easter Campaign Is Planned By Sunday Schools

An eight week Pre-Easter campaign will be sponsored by the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association, and this will be called "The Four Star" increase campaign embracing as its goal an increase in Evangelism, an increase in Sunday School attendance, and an increase in church attendance and an increase in Bible study. This campaign will commence Sunday, February 19.

Similar campaigns have been successfully held for the past two years, the first being known as "The Gold Rush" in which eleven Sunday schools participated, the second was known as the "Diamond Jubilee Increase Campaign" in which thirty-four Sunday schools participated and this year's effort will be "The Four Star Increase Campaign" and it is anticipated that over fifty Sunday schools will participate. The first campaign every additional member over the average for the preceding year was a "Nugget" and last year it was a "Diamond" and this year it will be a "Star".

The Sunday schools that participated last year were as follows: First New Castle, Group: First M. E. Highland U. P., First Baptist, Third U. P., Epworth M. E., Second New Castle, Group: Second U. P., First U. P., First Christian, Central Christian, Croton M. E., The Third New Castle, Group: St. Paul's Lutheran, Mahoning M. E., Wesley M. E., Maitland Memorial Primitive Methodist, The Fourth New Castle, Group: Mahoningtown Presbyterian, Reformed Presbyterian, St. John's Lutheran, Madison Avenue Christian, The Ellwood City Group was composed of the First Christian, First M. E., Magyar Presbyterian, Church of God, First U. P., First Baptist, Immanuel Reformed, Trinity Lutheran, Bell Memorial Presbyterian and the First Presbyterian. The County Group outside of New Castle and Ellwood City last year was composed of the East Brook M. E., New Westminster M. E., Edinburg M. E., Neshaunok Presbyterian, Bessemer Presbyterian, Shenango U. P. and Mahoning U. P.

The four goals of the campaign are those stressed by the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association and have been presented at the State Conventions for the past three years. Similar campaigns have been held in other counties of the state the most outstanding one perhaps being the one put on in Venango county. This country wide effort does not interfere with any other campaigns that are being held in individual Sunday schools, in fact such efforts are generally beneficial. All that is required to enlist in the campaign is to call either 351 or 913-M and give the name of the Sunday school and the average attendance for the last calendar year, from January 1st to December 31st. For Sunday school in New Castle, every Sunday afternoon during the campaign, the attendance for that particular Sunday should be called in to 913-M. The seven districts outside of New Castle will have a reporter in each district who will get the attendance for all the Sunday schools in his district every Sunday afternoon during the campaign, and call them in to 913-M. The percentage will then be figured out and the standings will be shown in each Monday's edition of this newspaper.

Communion Services In Trinity Episcopal

Tomorrow Beginning Of Lenten Season, Rector Pearson Reminds

Those confirmed last Sunday at Trinity Episcopal church will receive their first communion tomorrow. There will be two opportunities, 7:30 and 11 a. m.

The rector, the Rev. Philip C. Pearson, reminds the parish members that tomorrow is the beginning of the pre-lenten season, a time of preparation for the devout keeping of lent. During this period of nearly three weeks, people decide on their needs and then formulate their lenten rule, that from year to year there may be gains in the Christian life lived day by day. The plan is the same as that of an athletic coach or director, who points out the mistakes of the players that a winning team may be moulded. Thus the spiritual coach, the church, asks people to compare their lives with that of the Master that they may win the world for Christ.

Children's Church Services Tomorrow

Mrs. J. H. Boon will be the main speaker in the children's church, which will be held during the morning worship hour at 10:45 in the Gospel Tabernacle, 210 Pearson St. tomorrow morning. Miss Muri Smith, superintendent of the Junior Department announces that there will be several musical numbers by the members of the Junior Sunday school.

Honor Bible Student At Rescue Mission

A special program of vocal and instrumental music has been arranged by Superintendent Archie W. Gibson for Sunday. He said today. Young people will have charge.

There are only about 400 bloodhounds in the United States, and less than 100 of that number have been trained for trailing fugitives.

What's What At A Glance

disarmament were the two orders of the day.

Congressman Fred Britten of Illinois was chairman of the house of representatives' naval affairs committee then. He was a hard-bodiled militarist. "But," he told me, "I am in favor of strict armament limitation. Treaties are no good. A country has the equipment to fight, it will fight, treaties or no treaties. The only way to keep it peaceful is to deprive it of fighting equipment."

Congressman George Huddleston of Alabama was not chairman of any committee, for in that era, the Democrats, of whom he was one, were in a minority on Capitol Hill. Nevertheless he was an enlightened pacifist. "Armament limitation," he assured me, "is waste, treaty-making. Let two countries decide to fight one another, and no matter how effectively they mutually are disarmed, they will fight—with carving knives, if that is all they have got. Peace depends on how folks FEEL, not on what they've got to fight with."

Well, "Be gradual," is Senator Lodge's formula.

Arm, but do not arm. Be pacifistic, but not pacifistic.

Congress is discussing this issue. I wish ex-Representative Britten and Huddleston were here to take a hand in the debate. They had some concrete thoughts to express.

Arm for peace—and get into a war consequently! Do not arm, and get into a war anyway! Maybe Senator Lodge has the correct formula—"Be gradual."

Another special request night program with stirring gospel songs, will take place tonight at the Gospel Mission on Croton avenue. The message will be delivered by Evangelist Helen D. Wilson, who will on Sunday evening close evangelistic services which have been in progress at the mission for the past two and a half weeks.

Married sons in China live with their parents. This often results in very large families, as many as six generations, with from 200 to 300 members living under one roof.

Amil Lelenko Features Show
Staged By New Castle
Athletic Association
Friday Night

MANY FINE ACTS ARE PRESENTED

It was snowing and blowing outside last night, another of those nasty bad winter nights, but it didn't keep over 1,000 lovers of amateur talent from gathering at Ben Franklin junior high school auditorium for the New Castle Athletic association's first benefit endeavor for the Croton school band uniform fund. Amil Lelenko handled the master of ceremonies job in his own inimitable manner, and scored a distinct hit.

Franklin R. Crisci, general chairman of the show and president of the New Castle Athletic association, announced that quite a fine sum will be handed over to the Music Council to help pay for the Croton uniforms.

Croton Band Opens

The show opened with the Croton band on the stage in full regalia and looked lovely in the new uniforms. The band was directed by Miss Dorothy Patch. The band played three numbers.

Charles P. "Bugs" Walther of the New Castle News staff acted as the inductor of Master of Ceremonies Amil Lelenko after which the boy who made good in New York recently wowed them with his many impersonations interspersed with the announcing of various acts. Mr. Walther appeared later in the program and introduced Franklin R. Crisci, who thanked the patrons and also his committee for their fine work.

Those Participating

The show featured the following: Students of Miss Billie Glenn included the following: Patty Rowland, continuous waltz clog and song; Lorraine Julian, baby acrobatic; Violet Tobin, jazz strut; Rosemary Place, tap acrobatic; Junior Jenkins, military tap; Rose Isabella, vocal soloist supported by Phyllis Sabelli, Mae Stanley, Mary Accia and Anna Grace Cavender; Junior Scungio and Eva Mae De-Mase, duo tap routine; Leah Lash and Evelyn Palko, duo military number; Miss Billie Glenn, trumpet soloist and imitations.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

Copyright 1938, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

MEANS OF ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION REQUIRED SHOULD POLIO ATTACK CHEST MUSCLES.

When the doctor diagnoses your child's illness as infantile paralysis and orders him to the hospital, he does so for several reasons: some of which have been outlined in this column. But perhaps the main reason is so that he will be near artificial means of respiration, should the disease attack the muscles of the chest and weaken them so much that they can no longer work his diaphragm.

We have already seen that this muscle weakness usually starts in the lower legs. In many cases this weakness spreads rapidly up the body, involving the muscles of the thigh, the back, the abdomen, the arms and the chest in that order. This spread of weakness usually requires about two days to take place so there is plenty of time to have the patient moved to some place where there is a respirator before he needs it too badly.

But there are other cases where the paralysis comes on more rapidly, affecting the arms first and then, within a few hours, the chest. Some times the variety of polio that begins in the face and throat spreads rapidly to the chest.

The first sign that a child is having difficulty in breathing, due to the weakened muscles, is when the rate of breathing increases. Your child of two years or more, when normal, breathes about 20 to 25 times per minute. If he has a fever, as he will have with this disease, his rate may go up as high as 35 per minute. Let us say that he is breathing at about thirty and all of a sudden his rate goes up to fifty; then it is likely that the disease has attacked the muscles of the chest. If the doctor is called, he will watch to see how much the ribs move in breathing. He will be able to tell in this way if your worst fears are realized—the child's muscles will no longer work his chest.

Next sign that breathing is becoming more and more difficult is usually a change of color, since he isn't getting enough air. We notice this usually in the lips first, then the lobes of the ears, then the fingernails. It is a very serious sign for it means that the child must have help in breathing at once or he will die for lack of air.

There have been a very many different kinds of machines invented all over the world to help these unfortunate children breathe, but I think the most efficient of them all was one invented in Boston. Its chief drawback, and that, after all, isn't serious, is that it is so big and cumbersome.

In this machine, there is a large metal box, roughly shaped like a coffin. It stands about three feet off the floor and has beneath it all the mechanism necessary to operate it. This outer box is airtight, with the exception of a round hole at the end, about a foot in diameter. The patient is placed in the box, the only part of him that is outside is the head which sticks out of that hole in the end. So that the whole thing may be kept air-tight, there is a tight-fitting rubber diaphragm which fits around the patient's neck and is attached to the metal sides of the hole. The result is that no air whatever can get in or out of the box, even around the child's head.

Your Federal Income Tax

NORMAL TAX AND SURTAX RATES

The Revenue Act of 1938 provides for only one normal tax rate that is 4 percent on the amount of the net income in excess of the allowable credits such as the personal exemption credit for dependents, etc. The act provides for an additional credit for the purpose of the normal tax of an earned income credit, that is, 10 percent of the amount of the earned net income but not in excess of 10 percent of the amount of the net income. The personal exemption and credit for dependents are also allowable as credits against the net income for the purpose of the surtax, the resulting net income being designated "surtax net income". The surtax is imposed on surtax net income in excess of $4,000. The rates increase in accordance with the amount of surtax net income included in varying so-called surtax brackets. On a surtax net income of $4,000 or less there is no surtax. On a surtax net income in excess of $4,000 and not in excess of $6,000, the rate is 4 percent of such excess. The surtax upon a surtax net income of $6,000 is $80 and upon a surtax net income in excess of $6,000 and not in excess of $8,000 the rate is 5 percent of such excess in addition to the $80; or a surtax of $180 upon a surtax net income of $8,000. The surtax on a surtax net income of $5,000 is $3,591.000, and upon a surtax net income in excess of $5,000.000, 75 percent, the maximum rate is applicable to such excess in addition to the $3,591.000. Many taxpayers make the error of applying the maximum rate instead of the rate provided for in the bracket in which their surtax net income is included.

Following is an example of how to compute the tax on a net income of $8,500 all of which represents earned net income, the taxpayer being single and without dependents:

Net income ..... $8,500
Less personal exemption ..... 1,000

Balance (surtax net income) ..... 7,500
Earned income credit ..... 850

Net income subject to normal tax ..... 6,650

Surtax at 4 percent on amount of surtax net income in excess of $4,000 but not over $6,000 4 percent on $2,000..... 80

Surtax at 5 percent on amount of surtax net income in excess of $6,000 but not over $8,000 five percent on $1,500..... 75

Total surtax ..... 155

Normal tax, 4 percent on..... $6,650

Total normal tax and..... 266

Surtax ..... 421

Taxpayers are advised to read carefully the instructions accompanying Form 1040 relating to the earned income credit and surtax, as well as all other instructions thereon, before preparing their returns.

Tax Reduction Not Likely For Next Two Years

Governor Says Business Would Have To Improve Rapidly To Permit Action

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 4.—The possibility of a tax reduction during the next two years today was held by Gov. Arthur H. James to be very slim unless there is a great improvement in business.

Asked whether he saw any possibilities for tax reductions during the next biennium, the governor replied: "I do not, unless there is a great change in the industrial situation."

Hopeful Of Improvement
The governor added that "a representative of a new industry came to see me the other day and said he was bringing a rather substantial industry to Pennsylvania," the governor declined to disclose the name of the firm. He said he had also received a number of letters from industrial leaders inquiring about bringing their plants to Pennsylvania.

sylvania. He added that he was hopeful of an industrial improvement.

Governor James has already announced that he plans to recommend no new taxes in his budget message, which was previously scheduled to be delivered next week but may now be delayed because of last-minute changes.

"I am not sure about the budget next week," said the governor. "There will be some pretty radical reductions. I want to study what reductions we'll have to make to meet the budget. We are making every effort to arrange the budget so that there will be no necessity to call a special session. I don't think speed is the essence of this thing."

Bombyk Stars As New Castle Wins In Uphill Fight

Behind At Half 19 To 18
New Castle Turns On "Heat" In Third Period

LOCALS REMAIN IN FIRST PLACE

New Castle High school basketball team served notice on the other teams in Section three that they are going to be in the pennant fight up until the last man is out, by taking over Ambridge High at the Ambridge floor last night in a torrid last half drive 36 to 26. It was New Castle's sixth win in the section against two upsets.

The game was nip and tuck for the first two periods with the Rubenstein clan out in front at the end of the first half 19 to 18. In the first period New Castle held the lead at 9 to 8, with the work of Ray Bombyk keeping New Castle in the running—he made three field goals and a foul seven of the points. The other two points were supplied by "Blondie" Cyprien. The Ambridge scoring in the first period was rather well distributed.

New Castle Behind
Ambridge outscored the Bridenbaugh tossers in the second period 11 to 9. Bombyk, Lauro and Wenda sinking field goals and Kelly adding a couple of fouls. For the valiant play of Narkevich and Julia was the best in the second period. It was in the third period that the complexion of the game was changed to rosy red for the New Castle boys. Behind by one point as the play was resumed following intermission, the New Castle passers went to work with the aplomb of a well seasoned executioner and soon had the Ambridge hopes dashed by a spurt that netted them 11 points while Ambridge could get but one point.

Locals Take Lead
New Castle's lead at the end of the third period was 29 to 20. It was Ambridge now that had some catch-up to do, and they failed to do it, although they did try hard and fell one point short of winning the fourth night and it was New Castle dropping them in from all angles soon had the New Castle High colors hoisted high.

Julia was the best bet in the lineup of the losers with nine of the points. Gennock and Kelly in addition to Bombyk were the New Castle biggest point-makers.

New Castle will play Ellwood City High at George Washington gym on next Tuesday night.

Wampum Surprises; Defeats Shenango

Shenango's Hopes For Section 20 Title Gets Setback; Score Is 29-21

Another major Section 20 upset occurred in Wampum, Friday evening, when a determined Wampum high aggregation arose to great heights, whipping the plucky Shenango township combination 29-21.

The East New Castle quintet ended a 7-5 lead as activities ended in the opening canto. Clicking smoothly, the Shenangoans increased the margin to 15-10 at half-time.

With the start of the second half, Wampum commenced to strike. Presenting an absolute airtight defense, Wampum potted eight more markers while their foes were held scoreless.

With an 18-15 lead, the Wampum hoopers took the floor in the fourth canto and continued where they left off, hitting the mesh for 11 more points while Shenango scored but six points.

The victory for Wampum was one of the biggest surprises of the season and practically smothered Shenango's chances for a Section 20 triumph.

To Davis, Wampum center, goes the credit for playing one of the sweetest defensive games in years at Wampum. Frank and Huffman divided scoring honors. B. Pitzer led the Shenango forces with six points.

Ellwood Loses To Beaver Falls

Large Crowd Of Fans Sees Newton Charges Swept Aside By A Count Of 28-21

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 4.—Averaging a first half setback, the Beaver Falls high school courtiers continued their forward march last evening when they swept aside the Lincoln high school basketball team by a final count of 28-21 at Lincoln Court, making the second time in as many starts that the Newtonmen have been humbled in the second half, although they did put up a gallant fight.

The Valley players took the lead by one point in the first half and held it all the way. Ellwood scored more baskets than the winners but a better record from the charity line spelled victory for the Ransom charges. The locals show at the foul line was just as discouraging last night as it was encouraging on Tuesday night in the Alliquipp game.

Cunningham and Rubino led the scoring for Ellwood and Capozza and Charski were the bright lights for the winners.

In the preliminary game, the Ellwood Reserves paced by Mattocks defeated the Beaver Falls Reserves by a score of 20-14.

Next Tuesday night Ellwood journeys to New Castle for the game that marks the half way point in the second half.

On Lawrence County Farms

D. H. RICKS Acting County Agent

REDUCE SOIL LOSSES CAUSED BY EROSION

Any good farmer feels pretty badly when he sees his corn and grain fields cut by washes and gullies following an open winter or after any heavy rain. His disposition is not improved by having to plow in or work over or around these gutters later.

The gullies are not the only loss. Every time muddy water runs off a field a lot of good soil goes with it. It may not be missed at first but it can never be replaced. An inch of soil lost from an acre means about 150 tons. If the process continues the surface soil soon gets too shallow for profitable farming.

Some soil loss is inevitable if land is to be plowed. Washing and gullying can be reduced, however, to a point where they amount to very little. This has been done on many farms and can be done on nearly every farm. It can be done with no cash expense and very little inconvenience. The farmer can do it himself if he will give the proposition some consideration and study. There are several different ways of going about it. Most of them are not new but have been worked out long ago and successfully used for years by practical farmers.

Extension Circular 191 of the Pennsylvania State College, entitled "Reducing Erosion Losses On Pennsylvania Farms," shows pictures of how some farmers have attacked the problem and explains practices which any farmer can use to help prevent this ever present annoyance and loss.

BEGIN PLANNING FARM TREE PLANTINGS NOW

Now that most families are well supplied with seed and nursery catalogs, it is time to begin planning any tree plantings necessary about the farm.

It is more important to plan tree plantings than to work out the arrangements of vegetable or flower gardens. Trees require years instead of days to mature their crop of beauty, protection or timber. Any mistakes in planning will require years to correct.

Some species of trees are better adapted than others for certain purposes. For example, locusts or pines are excellent for the control of gulleys, and evergreens are best for game protection.

Evergreens, particularly a combination of short-needed types like hemlock, arbutus or spruce, and long-needed species, such as white, red, Scotch or Austrian pines provide the best windbreaks.

Shrubs, vines and heavily fruiting trees produce food for wildlife. Spruce, yellow pine and poplar are the good sources of pulpwood while white, red and yellow pines produce the desirable sawlog timber.

Because supplies of seedling trees are often exhausted before planting time in April, it is best to place orders early.

Leaflet 60, "Vegetable Varieties For Pennsylvania," published by the Agricultural Extension Division of the Pennsylvania State College, gives a standard list of vegetable suitable for practically all Pennsylvania conditions. It may be obtained at the Agricultural Extension Association office, 206 Post Office Building, New Castle, without charge.

Every year tests are conducted at the Pennsylvania State College of both old and new strains. Many showed more promise than others last year. In the case of bush snap beans, Tendergreen, which has round, green pods; Stringless Black Valentine, a strain having round, green pods which must be harvested promptly; and Bountiful, an early, flat, green-podded type, showed particular promise.

With beets, Asgrow Wonder and Crosby are the early strains selected for shape, color and medium top while Good for All, Detroit and Crimson King are late, round red types.

Numerous strains of cabbage were tested. Promising Golden Acre types are Louisiana Copenhagen and Earliest of All. Yellows Resistant Golden Acre is an early type. Resistant Detroit is a regular Golden Acre type.

Next week the balance of the more promising strains tested will be reported.

B. T. Washingtons Victors In Valley

Falcons To Play Washington Five

The Washington aggregation looms as one of the most potent teams in southwestern Pennsylvania. For the past five seasons, the visitors have topped the championship of Washington and also won the national championship of the I. W. O. last season. So far, the Washington cagers have won 32 and lost 5. The team is composed of former ex-Washington high stars as well as Earl Russell, former Lehigh captain and Labe Wardle, coach and former ace at Thiel college.

Bette Davis Wants To Play Double Role

By MILTON HARKER
(Copyright, 1939, by International News Service.)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 4.—Back temporarily from vacationing at sunny Palm Springs, Bette Davis today imported Hal Wallis, Warner's production chief to let her play a double role in her next picture, "The Old Maid", that of mother and daughter.

Bette, who looks better than she has in months, already is slated to play the old maid.

"But I want awfully bad to play her daughter, too," she told this reporter. "I have always wanted to play this kind of a double role in a picture. The daughter's part isn't very long. It just comes in at the end of the picture."

"There is one particular reason why I want that part too. The daughter gets married in a real wedding dress. I've always wanted to wear a wedding dress. I didn't even wear one at my own wedding. This would at least give me the chance, even if it would be make-believe."

Hal Wallis probably will give Bette her wish because she is the No. 1 Warner star.

After much discussion at M-G-M, Myrna Loy remains the perfect lady in "Lucky Night". The original script called for her to have Bernard Nedell, gambling overlord, who insults her in one scene of this riotous comedy.

Louis D. Lighton, the producer, and Norman Taurag, the director, thought the scene was a wow. But, Bob Taylor, who weds Myrna in the picture, had other ideas which he expressed very forcibly. Although Bob has done little else except fight in his last three pictures, it pained him to think of Myrna hanging a hunk of meat on a gent's jaw.

Spoke he thusly: "Myrna always has been the perfect something or other in her pictures. She is the perfect wife, or the perfect lady. No lady would clip a guy with a fistful of dynamite. Think of her public before you let her do this thing."

So Myrna will do what even a perfect lady might do if she were insulted. She will merely slap Nedell across the face. She'll do it like a perfect lady.

Lya Lys, who plays a spy in Warner's "Confessions of a Nazi Spy", will put plenty of zip into her role. She says she has good reason.

"When I was trying to get out of France during the recent war scare, I had to go through Germany to get to Norway, which was the only place where I could get reservations on a ship," she said. "In Hamburg I was seized by Nazi agents and held for six days because they heard I had said I would never make a picture in Germany. I did say that. I never would. I never want to go to Europe for that matter. I am happy that I am now a naturalized American. I love America. It is the greatest country in the world and I want to stay here always."

The Human Side Of The News

The transformation of New York goes on apace. The town is being prettied up to meet the gaze of the millions who will come to the big city to walk themselves weary through the labyrinthine avenues of Mr. Grover Whalen's World's Fair, and bedazzle their vision with its flashing modernities, its weird angles and its startling pyramids and hemispheres.

With all respect and admiration for Sir Grover as an executive of vision and terrific energy, plus charm and the old Eleanor Glynn "it," I submit that the greatest show the World's Fair visitor may look forward to is not the World's Fair but the wonders of New York itself.

It is, as I say, being transformed swiftly, efficiently, rather magnificently under the guiding hand of the greatest city planner in the land, Mr. Robert H. Moses. Already we have the beautiful West Side Parkway and motor highway, running side by side with the Hudson River for many miles. Work has been begun on the East River Parkway, and the time is not far off when that water-bordered roads will sweep gravely all around Manhattan Island. Visitors may pause and marvel at the great Triborough Bridge, at streets and avenues emancipated from crawling clanking street cars and elevated railroads; at the colossal museums of art and the story of mankind and all life; at a thousand free shows such, I think, as no other city in the land may offer.

Perhaps the World's Fair visitors will do what few New Yorkers ever seem to do—pay their respects to that majestic symbol of freedom in New York Harbor, the Statue of Liberty. She, too, has been prettied up, though they had to take the beauty parlor to her. Yes, the Big Lady down the Bay has had her face lifted. I mean the Statue of Liberty in New York Harbor.

She has needed a facial and a general massage for some 54 years, and she has had a thorough going over by the W. P. A. boys—all 152 feet of her. She glows and gleams with a new radiance, this queenly gift of one great republic to another. Perhaps in her new comeliness she meditates upon the vital and desperate need of the democracies she symbolizes standing together firmly against the insolent crowding tyrannies.

You many have heard of the Big Girl down the bay. Not unlikely she may have brought a lump to your throat as, leaning over the rail, you saw her loom out of the early morning mist. You glimpsed her, then, fresh from a cloud of European annoyances and disappointments which buzzed around your head and occasionally stung you with the eternal uniform of the European military; wearied with mock heroics and cold and deliberate inhumanity. You peered through the blue-gray mist as the tall towers of Manhattan arose before you, and recognized her for what she is—the symbol of freedom, the pledge and the promise wrought in steel and copper and stone that life offers more than servility and submission.

In the little more than half century, she has seen the world transformed under her tranquil gaze—no means for the better, and by no means for the worse. She has seen habits and customs and traditions that were once held to be the very soul of Americanism held up to the contempt and derision.

She has kept vigil there since July 8th, 1884, through all those years of material advance and moral retreat. She saw New York Harbor when it was white with sailing ships. She saw the first of the big modern steamships. She bowed to the salute of the White Squadron of the New American Navy. She saw cigarettes come in and votes for women. She saw Prohibition arrive and depart. She saw some twenty-seven years ago a great winged creature go whirling around her with a deafening roar—the first of the flying machines and the dawn of a new age. There were no automobiles when she came over from France to take out her first papers. There are some thirty-five million now.

And what a tale of celebrities and notables she has seen sailing up the Bay in their hour of glory. Kings and queens and prime-ministers, dummies and slick rascals, tycoons from Wall Street and some chisel-faced reformers, child prodigies and senile idiots—the whole human parade. But not until now, in all the 54 years that she has stood guard so majestically at the gateway, has she seen the safeguards of liberty the world over so cunningly, insolently threatened. Not until now had she heard names once revered, mocked and ridiculed. Still, though, she turns upon her serene and steady gaze with a silent reminder that we can have joy and pride in our country and a warm glow of security.

We give her greeting—Barthold's Goddess—and with an almost pagan passion, pray to God and all the unknown gods that she remain, as for that good half-century, the sign and symbol of that almost forgotten heritage and treasure—liberty!

Judging from police department reports auto thieves have become active again. . . . Co-operation is keen between city and railroad police as was evinced when Detective Dickerson of the B. & O. hearing a girl scream, following an accosting, pursued the assailant who escaped in the dark in the railroad car of South Jefferson street.

Not many persons appeared before Mayor Charles E. McGrath in traffic court, Friday afternoon, to answer charges of violating the parking meter ordinance. So far no teamster has been called upon to appear in court for "parking" his team and wagon without paying.

Under existing city legislation a teamster must pay if he "parks" his team and wagon.

Wolves elub members will hold their regular dinner meeting on Tuesday evening in The Castleton, starting at 6:30 o'clock.

Council of East Liverpool has abandoned legislation to tax amusement devices, including marble slot machines because the state supreme court of Ohio ruled slots are gambling equipment and cannot be used as municipal revenue producers. A councilman had sponsored an ordinance to charge monthly a fee of $3.00, for each pin-ball machine. The legislation was patterned after an enactment said to be operative in Cleveland and Youngstown.

AROUND CITY HALL

Some autoists apparently either fail to look for or do not obey traffic signs. There is a large traffic sign reading "No Parking At Any Time" in Sycamore way, west of North Mercer street. This did not deter parking there Friday afternoon. In fact, had the sign been a reptile it would have attacked the autoist.

Not many persons appeared before Mayor Charles E. McGrath in traffic court, Friday afternoon, to answer charges of violating the parking meter ordinance. So far no teamster has been called upon to appear in court for "parking" his team and wagon without paying.
